Domaine Comte de Vogüé – Pre-Arrival 2018 & in-stock collection

Chambolle-Musigny, Côte de Nuits

In his iconic Burgundy reference book The Great Domaines of Burgundy, the famous wine doyen Clive Coates gives 3-stars (the highest accolade) to only one domaine in Chambolle-Musigny: Domaine Comte de Vogüé. Indeed, as one of the oldest domaines in Burgundy with over 500 years of pedigree, its historic stature has few equals. The expressiveness of the domaine wines is uncanny, all held together in fine balance. These wines will bloom into absolute Burgundy greats. As the ratings suggest, the domaine's 2018s are simply outstanding. The 2018s are offered on a pre-arrival basis (availability: Q1 2021), while the others are available ex-stock Singapore.

Domaine Robert Groffier Père & Fils – Pre-Arrival 2018

This world-famous domaine is shining ever more brightly in the hands of the super-talented Nicolas Groffier. The wines are regally perfumed and astonishingly high-definition. Vintage 2018 may well be his best moment yet and we believe the critics have spotted the same quality too. This is unequivocally a star domaine in more ways than one. Domaine Amiot-Servelle Chambolle-Musigny, Côte de Nuits

Domaine Amiot-Servelle remains the only certified organic producer in Chambolle-Musigny. In the hands of the new-generation Prune Amiot who joined the domaine in 2011, the wines now show the delicacy and sensitiveness of the Chambolle terroir, all without sacrificing the age-worthiness for which her father's wines are renowned. The domaine's wines always taste fresh and polished although there is not too much reliance on new oak. There are precise and lifted aromatics, as well as animated and well-delineated flavours, an affirmation of the gentler approach to vinification as well as the success of organic viticulture. Every wine has a latent intensity and yet they never come across as ponderous or austere. This domaine is a gem and certainly a star in the making.

* New in Portfolio * Domaine Chandon de Briailles Savigny-les-Beaune, Côte de Beaune

François de Nicolay has transformed his family estate, the historic Domaine Chandon de Briailles, into one of the leading biodynamic practitioners in Burgundy. Once we stepped into the cellar of the idyllic family mansion, we encountered wines so profound we were convinced we had caught a glimpse of the essence of Burgundy's future. These are brilliant wines, joyfully transparent and animated, but also reassuringly steadfast, so that people who love their wines more mature will find their patience handsomely rewarded. They are vivid, spirited and yet finessed, wonderfully perfumed wines for dedicated Burgundy lovers.

* New in Portfolio * Domaine Moron-Garcia Nuits-Saint-Georges, Côte de Nuits

We don't find a domaine as exciting as this very often anywhere, much less in the deeply traditional region of Burgundy. Before setting up this micro-domaine, childhood friends Mathieu Moron (left) and Pierre-Olivier Garcia (right) had been working at different domaines, coincidentally both as viticulturists. Mathieu was the vineyard manager at Domaine D'Eugenie (formerly Domaine René Engel) while Pierre-Olivier was at Château de Prémieux. The first vintage for the estate was 2016, in which they produced a microscopic quantity of 2,700 bottles. What sets these guys apart from other wineries is their obsessive care and attention to detail, which is bordering on crazy by most definitions. If there is one thing that defines the spirit of innovation and perfectionism at Moron-Garcia, it is this: a rigorous and painstakingly manual destemming process using scissors, referred to as baie par baie (or berry by berry), in which they trim each grape off the stem one at a time, leaving intact only the very end of the stem that is attached to the berry. Their wines are unique; we could not liken them to the style of any Burgundy we have ever tasted. There is a sense of modernity around them, not in terms of the way the wine was dressed, but in terms of their upbeat, dynamic disposition; you just know these were the brainchild of fresh, ambitious minds. Yet there is also a steadfast, serious aspect to the wines that is reassuringly old school, a nod to the heritage of the land. They have gumption and an undeniable sophistication, all of the elements coexisting in harmony even at this stage in their lives, and promising a graceful evolution in the bottle to those who are patient.

Domaine Rougeot Meursault, Côte de Beaune

Pierre-Henri Rougeot is a model of the New Burgundy man – thoughtful, enlightened, purposeful and with a big heart. His wines express him and his vineyards wonderfully. One of the first changes he spearheaded when he returned to his family domaine in Meursault was a shift to organic viticulture. The family took their first steps towards certification in 2012 and after some trials the entire domaine became wholly organic in 2017. In the cellar, Pierre-Henri looked into every practice and soon enough he realised that there was no real need for most of the external agents and corrective additives. Very quickly he found that his way of working is aligned with that of the vignerons he admired: no commercial yeast, no enzymes, no acidification and working without sulphur to the extent possible. The whites from this address are bright and crystalline, crafted in a slightly reductive style but with minimal oak, preserving fruit purity. They are far more sophisticated than the prices they fetch. Pierre-Henri works with a high percentage of whole bunches for his reds to capture that magical perfume that he believes makes Burgundy wines special. Coupled with a dramatic reduction of sulphur use in the cellar, indeed his reds have a certain delicacy and unbound expressiveness about them. Do not miss these enlightened fine burgundies.

* New in Portfolio  Champagne Huré Frères

Montagne de Reims, Champagne

Energy and Harmony don't often meet, but when they do so as perceptibly as in the exquisitely crafted champagnes by the Huré Frères, you know you are stepping into a very unique vinous realm. François and Pierre Huré are brothers whose family domaine owns 10 hectares divided among the villages of Ludes, Villedomange, Brouillet, Serzy, Prin and Vavray. Viticulture is at the heart of the brothers' work, committed to using environmentally sustainable farming practices and customised to suit the needs of each individual parcel. In the cellar the Huré brothers aim to bring the best out of each plot, using a mix of steel tanks, large oak foudres and small oak barrels. Each parcel is vinified separately and kept apart until the final blending, with an increasing number of parcels fermented in oak barrels of various sizes. These are electric champagnes with off-the-charts focus and articulation, whose energy is cathartic, delivering layer upon layer of exquisite flavours and cleansing mineral tones all beautifully arranged in one seamless package. Champagne is in safe hands in the likes of these new-generation progressive vigneron.

Two of Champagne's most distinguished rising stars, Raphaël and Vincent Bérêche have been working alongside their father Jean-Pierre at their domaine since 2004, and today they are putting an increasingly personal stamp on this thoughtfully-run domaine. One taste of their Brut Réserve NV is all it takes to prove that this domaine is comfortably seated in the top echelons of grower champagnes. Champagne David Léclapart Montagne de Reims, Champagne

When it comes to electric, gravity-defying, vinous styled champagnes, David Léclapart has no equal. Léclapart's followers seek out his champagnes because they provide a unique emotional experience. We habitually refer to them as 'spiritual' champagnes, unearthly juice with distinctive personalities and unfathomable levels of energy. These sleek bone-dry champagnes find their origin in David Léclapart's biodynamic vineyards in Trépal, a prized premier cru village in the Montagne de Reims where Chardonnay vines dominate. Léclapart's champagnes demand the taster to fully engage and inquire. They expect you to be ready to discard whatever notion you already have about fine wines in order to experience their essence. Earnest tasters very quickly realise that these champagnes are not just about flavours. There is texture, energy, inner mouth perfume and a unique spiritual presence. They are impossibly alive. They are ever changing in the glass. Their intrigue lures you to keep sipping. The sensation is indescribable yet palpable. These are rarified cult champagnes meant to satisfy the most discerning of oenophiles.
